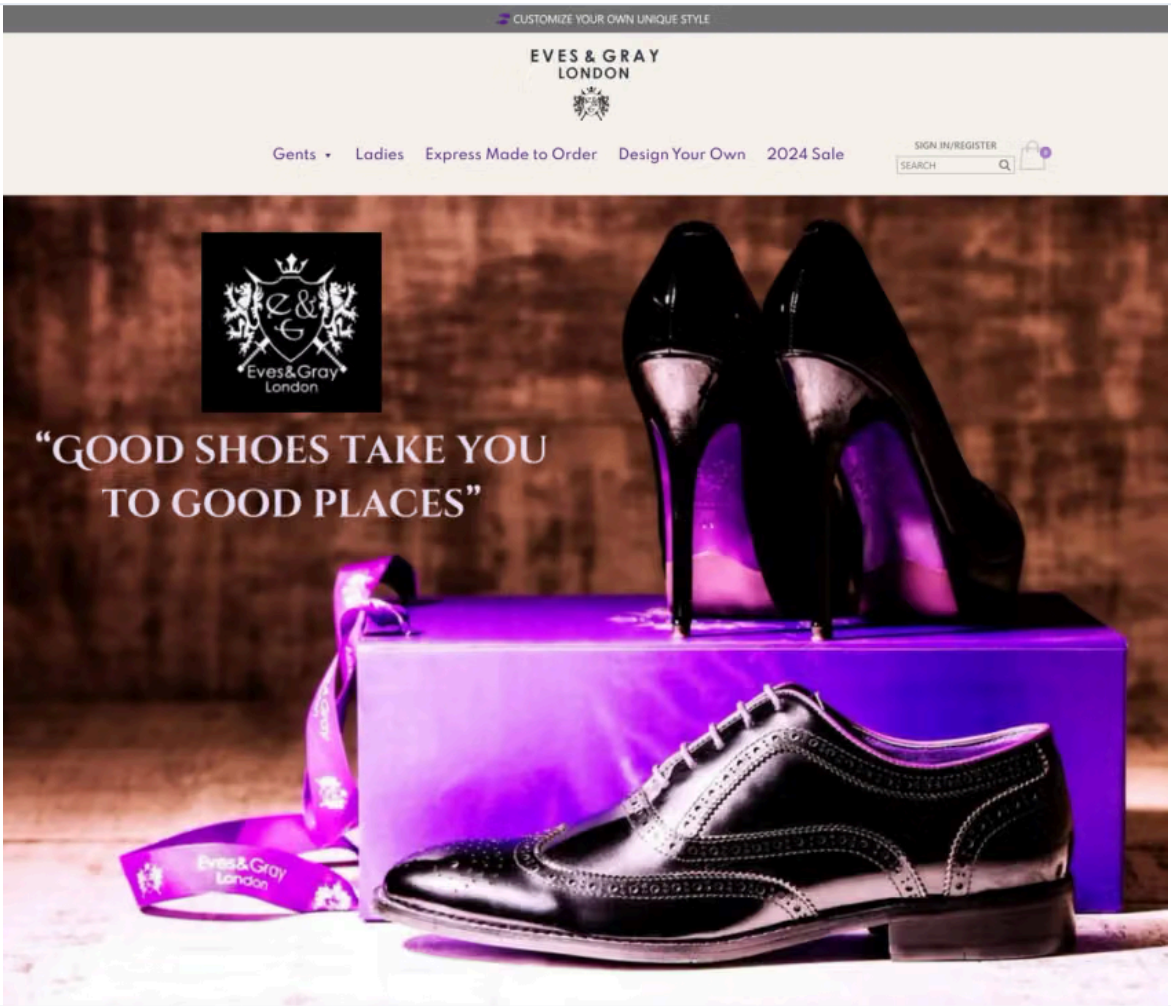
Introduction



Eves & Gray's Homepage

Eves & Gray, a family-owned luxury footwear brand, has been redefining the shoe industry with their handcrafted, made-to-order designs. Known for gracing the feet of celebrities, pop stars, and professional athletes, they combine traditional craftsmanship with a contemporary twist. Their unique selling proposition lies in their commitment to quality and individuality, ensuring that each pair of shoes tells its own story.

However, even with such a remarkable product line, Eves & Gray faced a significant challenge: effectively communicating with a wider audience. They excelled in selling their shoes when given the opportunity but struggled to spread their message far and wide. The solution needed to be fast, simple, and elegant—qualities that Spur embodies perfectly.

The Challenge

Before partnering with Spur, Eves & Gray knew that their success hinged on reaching the masses. They had tried various marketing channels but couldn't find a method that provided both personalization and scalability. Traditional marketing avenues were either too impersonal or too time-consuming, failing to capture the essence of their brand and the attention of potential customers.

> “Spur makes it effortless to connect with your audience. With features like Carousel Messages, advanced segmentation, and DeliveryBoost™, you can expect immediate results and sustained growth.”

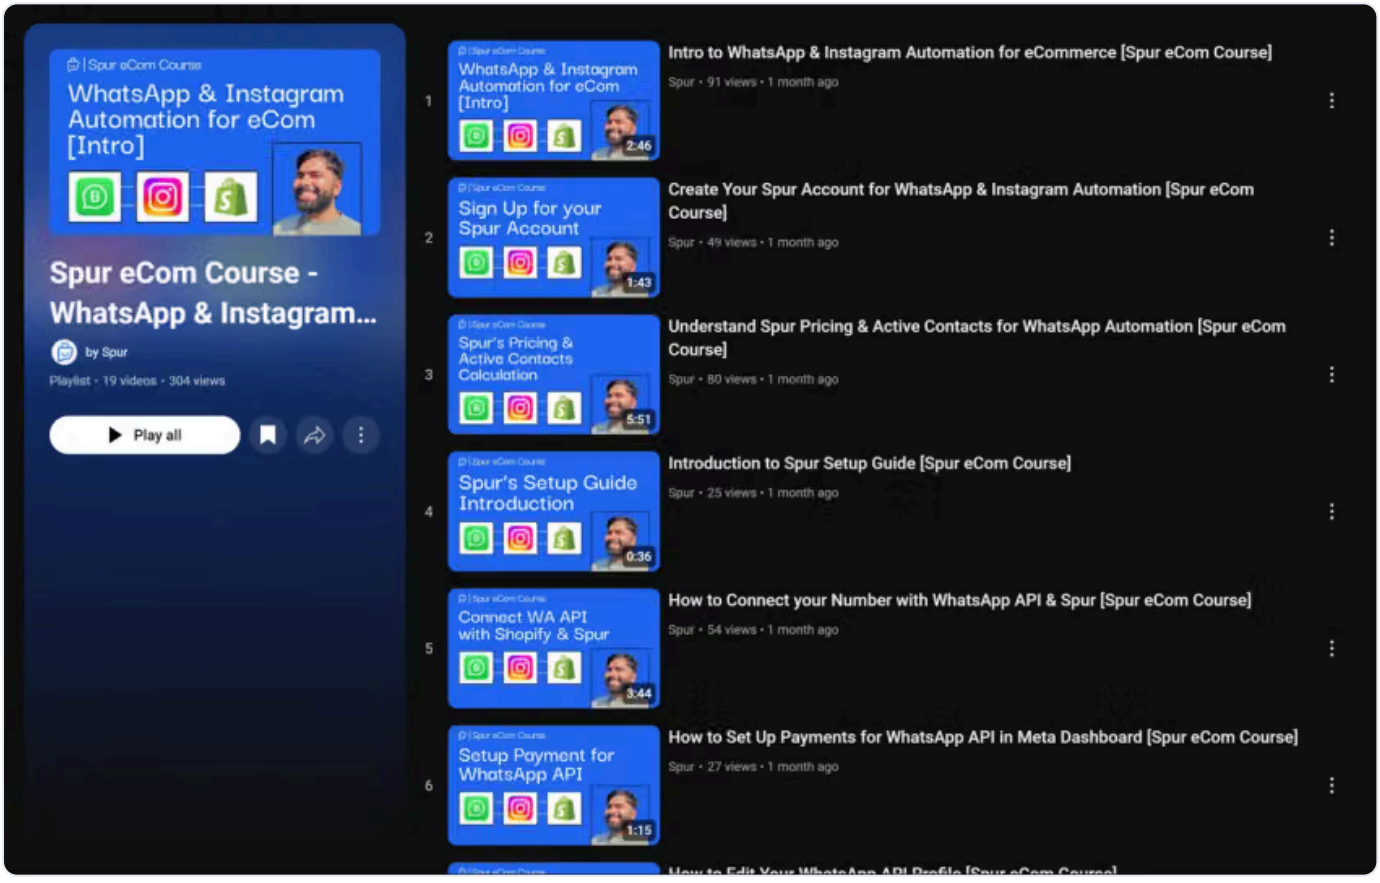
The Spur Solution

Easy Onboarding



Spur's Playlist walks you through step-by-step in bite-sized videos to help you install and configure Spur in just a few minutes

The journey began with a seamless onboarding process. Eves & Gray already had a Facebook Business Manager account and a dedicated WhatsApp number for marketing. With Spur's robust video guides, they were able to integrate their systems and set up their account in just a few clicks.

Setting Up the Broadcast with Carousel Messages

Example of a Carousel Message and what they look like on WhatsApp mobile.

To make a significant impact, Eves & Gray decided to utilize WhatsApp's Carousel Messages, which they could make easily with Spur's Template Builder. Unlike simple text messages, carousel messages offer a swipeable series of cards, each containing images, multiple buttons, and links. This interactive format was perfect for showcasing their products and special offers.

Their broadcast message promoted a Clearance Sale, offering customers 50% off on select items, a free item worth £85 with all orders and an urgent call-to-action stating that the offer would end tonight.

HOW THE WORKFLOW WORKS

STEP 1	STEP 2	STEP 3
Create a message template	Choose the audience segment	Configure and send the broadcast

Setting up the broadcast was straightforward:

1. Template Submission: They submitted their carousel message template for review with just a click and got it approved within seconds.
2. Audience Segmentation: Using Spur's advanced segmentation tools, they targeted customers who had previously shown interest in the products that were on sale.
3. Broadcast Sending: With a click of a button, their message was scheduled for delivery.

Overcoming Meta's Frequency Capping with DeliveryBoost™

One of the hurdles in WhatsApp marketing is Meta's Frequency Capping, which limits message deliveries to 30-40%. Spur's proprietary DeliveryBoost™ technology tackles this issue head-on.

How DeliveryBoost™ Works:

- If a message fails to deliver on the first attempt, DeliveryBoost™ doesn't give up.
- It continuously tries to resend the message over the next 24 hours.
- The timing of each attempt is optimized by an internal algorithm, increasing the chances of successful delivery.

This innovative approach resulted in an astounding 99.18% delivery rate for Eves & Gray's broadcast.
